Discover Southeast Alaska by Small Ship

* Tails, Talons, and Totem Poles *

July 5-12, 2019

Featuring UCLA Professor Phil Rundel, Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology
Dear UCLA Alumni and Friends,

Join us for a summertime expedition through some of nature’s more secluded landscapes as we discover the remote inner reaches of Alaska’s Inside Passage aboard the intimate 66-passenger Admiralty Dream. Capture the sight of whales breaching next to your boat, bears fishing along the shoreline, and eagles looking down from their nests—all part of nature’s amazing show.

Enjoy the agility and flexibility of small-ship travel, up-close encounters with wildlife, stunning scenery, cultural experiences, and the guidance of expert naturalists. In addition, Professor Phil Rundel, Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology, will join this cruise to share his expertise. Phil’s fields of research and teaching at UCLA include conservation biology, fire management, and the ecology of forest ecosystems. His long career has included comparative studies of southeastern Alaskan ecosystems with Patagonian ecosystems in southern Chile and their similar glacial topography. He has worked broadly as a consultant with the National Park Service and other agencies in developing scientifically based programs of resource management for forest and shrubland ecosystems.

This program also offers an optional pre-tour to Denali National Park. Explore this vast and stunningly beautiful wilderness—home to Mt. Denali, the highest mountain in North America. Ride the Alaska Railroad, stay in a hilltop lodge with panoramic views located inside the park, and learn how this magnificent area became one of our nation’s most breathtaking conservation areas.

I have personally traveled on this trip if you have any questions. Space is extremely limited. With significant savings of up to $1,000 per couple, we anticipate this tour will fill quickly, so be certain to reserve your spot today and share this brochure with family and friends who may be interested in traveling with you.

Sincerely,

Christel Aragon
Director, UCLA Alumni Travel
